

The latency metric collapses onto only a few discrete bucket values per service.

The number of metric windows is not proportional to the real invocation count.

